Manabik Shahajya Sangstha

Manabik Shahajya Sangstha (MSS), a leading national level non-governmental organization, was established by a group of students of Dhaka Residential Model School/College and later of the University of Dhaka in 1974 with the aim to provide succor to the underserved flood-stricken people. Thereafter, MSS started to empower the disadvantaged people by making resources available to them through microcredit, health and nutrition services, eliminating preventable blindness; promoting food security, women and child rights, good governance, non-formal primary education, among others.

Established in 1989, the Women's Credit Program is the first urban replication of the world famous Grameen Bank Model in the slums of urban Dhaka with a particular focus on women. The program works toward achieving economic emancipation of the underserved communities through a range of services including micro-finance, social services, and capacity building. MSS has since expanded its activities in the rural areas. By providing access to financial resources and building their skills and knowledge, MSS is helping break the barriers and create opportunities for people who might have otherwise been left behind. WCP proved itself to be a reliable, sustainable, and cost effective financial service provider.

As of 30 June 2023, MSS disbursed cumulative loans worth Tk. 81.25 billion and so far, recovered Tk. 74.39 billion which is 91.55% of the loans disbursed among 1.51 million borrowers through 162 branches spread in 128 upazila in 17 districts. Over one and a half million MSS members saved Tk. 20.99 billion. In addition, MSS spent Tk. 291.07 million to reach out to 0.18 million people with emergency relief and other social services including health, eyecare, nutrition, education and daycare services. MSS continues to grow and expand its programs.
